

I am tired of the fcc and the rest of the federal government telling me what I can listen to or what I can watch on TV or in a movie. I don't need the feds to run my life. I can do it myself. We have a capitalist economic system in this country, and so far it's done a great job. If the broadcasters in this country are losing ratings due to XM, it's because they cannot compete with new technology. It should not be the federal government telling me or the rest of the country what kind of programming XM can have. I pay for this service every month and if I don't like what they have at that point, I will stop paying for their service. Obviously, the rest of the public feels the same way I do because in this capitalist system you do not succeed unless you give the consumer what he or she wants. Please get out of my life. Go back to Washington, sit down at your desk, and tell one of your interns to run down to the library and grab you a copy of the US Constitution.
